The road history projects undertaken by the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research (formerly the Virginia Transportation Research Council) establish the feasibility of studies of early road networks and their use in the environmental review process. These projects, by gathering and publishing the early road orders of the vast parent counties and other significant areas, also lay the foundation for additional research by local groups over a broad area of Virginia.

This volume marks the 28th entry in the Historic Roads of Virginia series, initiated in 1973 by the Virginia Highway & Transportation Research Council (subsequently the Virginia Transportation Research Council, and now the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research). Loudoun County Road Orders 1757-1783 is a cooperative effort between the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research and independent researcher Patricia B. Duncan. This volume furthers the coverage of early Northern Virginia transportation records begun in the previously published Fairfax County Road Orders 1749-1800, Frederick County Road Orders 1743-1772, and Orange County Road Orders 1734-1749.

This volume covers the period from the creation of Loudoun County, Virginia, until the years immediately following the end of the Revolutionary War. By the last half of the 18th century, Loudoun County was already one of the most populous and economically important counties in Northern Virginia, and it contained major east-west and north-south transportation routes. The county’s early transportation records provide important information relating to transportation connections with not only neighboring counties and other southern counties in Virginia but also the Washington, D.C., region and the adjoining states of Maryland and what is now West Virginia. This publication will have particular application to the cultural resource research relating to transportation projects in this area of Northern Virginia. This information will eliminate the need for further research into the early Loudoun County road order records. If questions arise about early roads once a VDOT road improvement project is already underway (or nearly underway), primary historical research of this nature can take 6 to 12 months to complete. Therefore, this volume can be a source of potentially significant cost savings for VDOT, including the avoided costs of project delays and avoided consultant costs for cultural resource studies should questions arise.

_Loudoun County Road Orders 1757-1783_ is a cooperative project between Patricia B. Duncan and the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research (formerly the Virginia Transportation Research Council). It is the eighth volume of road orders produced cooperatively between a private group or individual and the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research. This volume follows similar projects with the Orange County Historical Society (which sponsored the production of _Orange County Road Orders 1734-1749_ and _Orange County Road Orders 1750-1800_); the Culpeper County Historical Society (which sponsored _Culpeper County Road Orders 1763-1764_); the Fairfax County History Commission (which sponsored _Fairfax County Road Orders 1749-1800_); Shenandoah University (which sponsored _Frederick County Road Orders 1743-1772_); and the New River Historical Society (which sponsored _Fincastle County Road Orders 1773-1776_ and _Montgomery County Road Orders 1777-1806_).

The location and transcription of the Loudoun County road orders were undertaken by Patricia B. Duncan as part of her ongoing research and publication of the early Loudoun County records. Final proofreading, formatting, and indexing were undertaken at the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research by Ann Brush Miller.

_Loudoun County Road Orders 1757-1783_ is the first of two volumes covering the 18th century transportation records for an important portion of northern Virginia (the second volume, _Loudoun County Road Orders 1783-1800_, is currently in preparation). Created from Fairfax County in 1757, Loudoun County is located in extreme north-central Virginia. It is bounded by Fairfax County to the east, and to the west is the northern Shenandoah Valley. West Virginia (part of Virginia until 1863) lies northwest of Loudoun County, and to the north is the Potomac River, Virginia’s boundary with Maryland. To the south of Loudoun County are Prince William and Fauquier counties. By the second half of the 18th century, these various regions were connected by a number of major transportation corridors running through Loudoun County.

This volume is the twenty-eighth entry in the Historic Roads of Virginia series, initiated in 1973 by the Virginia Highway & Transportation Research Council (subsequently the Virginia Transportation Research Council, and now the Virginia Center for Transportation Innovation and Research). _Loudoun County Road Orders 1757-1783_ is the fourth volume of published road orders to be concerned with the early transportation records of the northernmost portion of Virginia. It follows _Fairfax County Road Orders 1749-1800_, _Frederick County Road Orders 1743-1772_, and _Orange County Road Orders 1734-1749_ (which included road orders for the period during which the northwestern portion of Virginia, west of the Blue Ridge Mountains, was part of Orange County, prior to 1745).
A NOTE ON THE METHODS, EDITING, AND DATING SYSTEM

by

Nathaniel Mason Pawlett
(Faculty Research Historian, Virginia Transportation Research Council, 1973-1995)

The road and bridge orders contained in the order books of an early Virginia county are the primary source of information for the study of its roads. When extracted, indexed, and published by the Virginia Transportation Research Council, they greatly facilitate this. All of the early county court order books are in manuscript, sometimes so damaged and faded as to be almost indecipherable. Usually rendered in the rather ornate script of the time, the phonetic spellings of this period often serve to complicate matters further for the researcher and recorder.

With these road orders available in an indexed and cross-indexed published form, it will be possible to produce chronological chains of road orders illustrating the development of many of the early roads of a vast area from the threshold of settlement through much of the eighteenth century. Immediate corroboration for these chains of road orders will usually be provided by other evidence such as deeds, plats, and the Confederate Engineers maps. Often, in fact, the principal roads will be found to survive in place under their early names.

With regard to the general editorial principles of the project, it has been our perception over the years as the road orders of Louisa, Hanover, Goochland, Albemarle, and other counties have been examined and recorded that road orders themselves are really a variety of “notes,” often cryptic, incomplete, or based on assumptions concerning the level of knowledge of the reader. As such, any further abstracting or compression of them would tend to produce “notes” taken from “notes,” making them even less comprehensible. The tendency has, therefore, been in the direction of restraint in editing, leaving any conclusions with regard to meaning up to the individual reader or researcher using these publications. In pursuing this course, we have attempted to present the reader with a typescript text that is as near a type facsimile of the manuscript itself as we can come.

Our objective is to produce a text that conveys as near the precise form of the original as we can, reproducing all the peculiarities of the eighteenth-century orthography. While some compromises have had to be made because of the modern keyboard, this was really not that difficult a task. Most of their symbols can be accommodated by modern typography, and most abbreviations are fairly clear as to meaning.

Punctuations may appear misleading at times, with unnecessary commas or commas placed where periods should be located; appropriate terminal punctuation is often missing or else takes the form of a symbol such as a long dash, etc. The original capitalization has been retained insofar as it was possible to determine from the original manuscript whether capitals were intended. No capitals have been inserted in place of those originally omitted. The original spelling and syntax have been retained throughout, even including the obvious errors in various places, such as repetitions of words and simple clerical errors. Ampersands have been retained throughout to include such forms as “&c” for “etc.” Superscript letters have also been retained where used in yᵉ, yʳ, sᵈ. The thorn symbol (ȝ), pronounced as “th,” has been retained in the aforesaid “yᵉ,” pronounced “the,” and “yʳ” (that). The tailed “p” (resembling a capital “p” with the tail extended into a loop) has also been retained. This symbol has no counterpart in modern typography; given the limits of the modern keyboard, we have rendered it as a capital “p” (P). This should be taken to mean either “per” (by), “pre,” or “pro” (sometimes “par” as in “Pish” for parish) as the context by the order may demand. For damaged and missing portions of the manuscripts we have used square brackets to denote the [missing], [torn] or [illegible] portions. Because of the large number of ancient forms of spelling, grammar, and syntax, it has been deemed impracticable to insert the form [sic] after each one to indicate a literal rendering. Therefore, the reader must assume that apparent errors are merely the result of our literal transcription of the road orders, barring the introduction of typographical errors, of course. If, in any case, this appears to present insuperable problems, resort should be made to the original records.

As to dating, most historians and genealogists who have worked with early Virginian records will be aware of the English dating system in use down to 1752. Although there was an eleven-day difference from our calendar in the day of the month, the principal difference lay in the fact that the beginning of the year was dated from March 25 rather than January 1, as was the case from 1752 onward to the present. Thus, January, February, and March (to the 25th) were the last three months in a given year, and the new year came in only on March 25.

Early Virginian records usually follow this practice, though in some cases dates during these three months will be shown in the form 1732/3, showing both the English date and that in use on the Continent, where the year began January 1. For researchers using material with dates in the English style, it is important to remember that under this system (for instance) a man might die in January 1734 yet convey property or serve in public office in June 1734, since June came before January in a given year under this system.
INTRODUCTION

by

Ann Brush Miller

The roads are under the government of the county courts, subject to be controuled by the general court. They order whenever they think them necessary. The inhabitants of the county are by them laid off into precincts, to each of which they allot a convenient portion of the public roads to be kept in repair. Such bridges as may be built without the assistance of artificers, they are to be built. If the stream be such as to require a bridge of regular workmanship, the court employs workmen to build it, at the expense of the whole county. If it be too great for the county, application is made to the general assembly, who authorize individuals to build it, and to take a fixed toll from all passengers, or give sanction to such other proposition as to them appears reasonable.

—Thomas Jefferson, Notes on the State of Virginia, 1781

The establishment and maintenance of public roads were among the most important functions of the county court during the colonial period in Virginia. Each road was opened and maintained by an Overseer of the Highways appointed by the Gentlemen Justices yearly. He was usually assigned all the “Labouring Male Titheables” living on or near the road for this purpose. These individuals then furnished all their own tools, wagons, and teams and were required to labor for six days each year on the roads.

Major projects, such as bridges over rivers, demanding considerable expenditure were executed by commissioners appointed by the court to select the site and to contract with workmen for the construction. Where bridges connected two counties, a commission was appointed by each and they cooperated in executing the work.

Created from the western portion of Fairfax County in 1757, Loudoun County occupies a significant location in the extreme north-central portion of Virginia. To the east of Loudoun County is Fairfax County, and to the west, beyond the Blue Ridge Mountains, are Clarke County (part of Frederick County during the 18th century) and the other counties of the northern Shenandoah Valley. South of Loudoun County are Prince William and Fauquier counties. West Virginia (part of Virginia until 1863) lies northwest of Loudoun County, and to the north is the Potomac River, which is Loudoun’s, as well as Virginia’s, northern boundary with Maryland.

At its creation and for most of the 18th century, Loudoun County included, in addition to its present territory, a portion of present day Fairfax County. The original boundary line between Fairfax and Loudoun ran along Difficult Run, several miles to the east of the current boundary; the present boundary line is the result of the 1798 boundary adjustment between those counties.
By the last half of the 18th century, Loudoun County was already one of the most populous and economically important counties in northern Virginia, and it contained major east-west and north-south transportation routes. Various ferry crossings of the Potomac River connected roads between Loudoun County and Maryland, and south from Loudoun roads ran further into Virginia and ultimately to the Carolinas. Also, roads from Loudoun ran westward through the Blue Ridge Mountains to the Shenandoah Valley and points farther west, and east to port towns such as Colchester and Alexandria.

The county’s early transportation records provide important information relating not only to transportation connections with neighboring counties and other southern counties in Virginia but also with the Washington, D.C., region and the adjoining states of Maryland and what is now West Virginia. The road orders contained in this volume cover the period from the creation of Loudoun County in 1757 through the end of the American Revolution. These orders comprise much of the principal extant evidence concerning the early development of roads over an important area of northern Virginia, and adjoining regions, during the last half of the 18th century.

Land run to broad run Church whereof Franklin Perry is Surveyor.

14 September 1757, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 23
Ordered that William West Gent. allot the hands to work on the roads whereof John Champ John Henwood and James Wheelock are Surveyors.

12 October 1757, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 33
Upon the Petition of Josias Clapham Gent. for a Road leading from the Road of Noland’s ferry to the ferry of said Clapham’s. A Report was returned in these Words following to wit, “In Pursuance to an order of Loudoun Court dated August 10th 1757 We the Subscribers have viewed a Road therein mentioned and find it most Convenient from the Ford by John Gibson’s to go a straight course to a large Poplar by a run which we marked thence thro an old Field to two white Oaks marked by us thence to the main Road by marked Trees about a Mile from the River Witness our hands this 11th day of October 1757. John Poultney David Richardson” Whereupon it is Ordered that the same be established as a public Rod that the said Josias Clapham be appointed Surveyor thereof and that Nicholas Minor Gent. allot the hands to work on the said Road.

12 October 1757, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 37
Ordered that William Mead, John Ratcliff and William Ross do view the most convenient way for a road leading from Morris’s ford of Goose Creek to the Mountain Road and also from Morris’s ford to Broad Run Chappel & make report.

8 November 1757, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 39
[Grand Jury Presentments]
Thomas Lewis Surveyor of the Road from Goose Creek to Broad run Bridge for not keeping the same in repair according to Law within one Month last past.
8 November 1757, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 41

[Grand Jury Presentments]
John Trammell for not keeping Broad run Bridge in repair.

9 November 1757, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 52
The Petition of the Inhabitants of George Town praying that the Roads leading from Alexandria to Winchester and from Noland’s Ferry towards Carolina may be opened to go through the said Town in the most convenient manner Ordered that the same be done accordingly and that James Hamilton John Moss Gent. and Thomas Sorrell do view the most convenient way for the same and make report to the Court.

14 March 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 67
Ordered that William West Gent. allot and set apart the Hands to work on the Road leading from Bacon Fort to the top of the Ridge whereof Samuel Duncan is Surveyor.

11 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 80
Ordered that Nicholas Minor John Moss Gent. and Ezekiel Hickman or any two of them do view the Road from George Town to the upper side of the Mouth of Goose Creek and make report to the Court.

11 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 85
Ordered that Francis Summers James Lane Robert Thomas Junr. and James Lane junr. Gent. do view the most convenient way for a Road leading from the Road that leads from Rockey run to the Ox Road and make report to the Court.

12 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 91
Thomas Cockrill is appointed Surveyor of the Road from little Rockey run called the Mountain Road up the said road to the Post, and It is Ordered that James Lane Gent. to allot the hands to Work on the said Road.

12 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 91
Dempse Carroll is appointed Surveyor of the Road from little Rockey run down the Mountain Road to the end of the County including the bridge over little Rockey run in the room of James Lane Gent. who is discharged from that Office, and it is Ordered that the said James Allot the hands to work on the said road.

12 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 91
Upon the Petition of the Inhabitants of George Town praying that the Road from Alexandria to Winchester and from Noland’s Ferry towards Carolina may be opened so as to go through the said Town in the most convenient manner A report was returned in the words following, to wit, “Pursuant to an Order of the Court of Loudoun We the Subscribers have viewed the most convenient ways for the Roads to pass through the Town and find them convenient and good with proper clearing. John Moss James Hamilton Thomas Sorrell” Whereupon It is Ordered that the same be established as public Roads.
12 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 92
John Moss Gent. is appointed Surveyor of the Road that leads from George Town to Secolon’s Branch near John Ratcliffs.

12 April 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 94
John Thomas is appointed Surveyor of the Road from the fork of the Road above Goose Creek at Ezekiel Hickman’s to the great Lime stone and from that Road to the Shanado Road as it now stands and It is Ordered that Nicholas Minor Gent. allot the hands to Work on the said Road.

9 May 1758, Loudoun Order Book A, p. 98
[Grand Jury Presentments]
The Surveyor of the road from M’ Clapham’s ferry to the fork of Noland’s Road for not having it in repair within two Months last part.
* * *
The Surveyor of the Road for not having a Sign Post up where Vincent Lewis’s Road goes into William Wests Road.

Francis Hague, James Hamilton and Israel Thompson who were appointed upon Oath and Affirmation to View the most convenient way for a Road to be altered from Rachel Hollingsworths to Mahlon Janneys Mill now Report to the Court here, “That they are of Opinion that where the Road now goes is the firmest Ground, but that the Hills on each side the Creek is more of a Pinch than those by Houghs Mill, and as it leads through his cleared Land lays him under the necessity of making and supporting two Lanes. We apprehend the difference in the length of the way proposed and that of the Road where it now goes to be very little, but find the place of crossing Rachel Hollingsworths creek will be attended with difficulty unless a causeway be made on one side the Creek. From there to John Houghs tolerable good road may be had, His creek deep fording and ought to have a Bridge, or be otherwise helped with filling the crossing place with Stones &c. The ground from there to Mahlon Janneys Mill Equally good with the other road but will require some part of it to be cut and Opened.” Ordered that the same be cleared and established according to Report, and that the old Road be discontinued, and John Hough is appointed Surveyor thereof which he is Ordered to keep in repair according to the directions of the Act of Assembly in that case made and provided and James Hamilton Gent. is desired to Allott the hands to work thereon.

Francis Peyton’s Quarter Plantation and going as near the foot the mountain as the Ground will admit of to Fauquier County line. The second is from the said Mill directing it’s course down the river along the edge of the old field and so to the corner of Thomas Gibsons fence thence with the Fence and running thro’ a small part of his Field and to where the old road was formerly turned round James Sinkler’s plantation and round his fence as the Road now runs, to where the said Road was turn’d round M’. Mercers Quarter Plantation thence thro’ the woods as straight a course as the ground will admit of to a little old field opposite Mercer’s Fod[d]er house and thro’ a corner of his Field and little Meadow to the old road and with the same to the Hay stacks thence up a little Hill as the old road formerly run as near as can be to the great road leading from Snicker’s Gap, and further We are of Opinion that it would be much more convenient for the above road to be brought thro’ James Sinkler’s Plantation tho’ the way round may do, and that instead of cutting off a corner of M’. Mercers field and Meadow it might be made passable but not nearly equal to going thro’ and that by going thro’ it does him but very little if any Injury. And the third is from the said Mill and straight a course as can be had to James Battsons going to the northward of Richard Cruppers plantation and from Battsons along the old road to the Church road thence with the Church road to Thomas Owsleys Waggon road and with the said Waggon road crossing Goose creek at his ford and through his plantation as the aforesaid Waggon road now runs to the Road that comes down by French’s Quarter.” It is Ordered that the said Roads be opened and cleared according to the Report, and Charles Pullen appointed Surveyor of that which leads from the Mill to the Mountain at Mercers Mill, Thomas Owsley of that from the Mill to the road leading from French’s Quarter, and Edmond Collens of that from the said Mill to Fauquier County line, which they are severally to keep in repair

This index is arranged by subject: Bridges and Causeways; Churches, Chapels, Glebes, Meeting Houses, Parishes; County and Virginia Government; Ferries; Fords; Land Features; Mills and Mill Dams; Miscellaneous Subjects (houses, landmarks, neighborhoods, plantations, quarters, stores, towns, etc.); Ordinaries and Taverns; Personal Names; Rivers, Runs, Springs, Creeks, and Other Water Features; Roads.

[Note: In this index, a question mark after a word or group of words signifies that what precedes it appears possible or probable but is not absolutely specified or legible in the text of the order book entry. For example, “Road over Broad Run just below the bridge” is indexed under Fords as “Road [ford?] over Broad Run just below the bridge” because it is probable that a road crossing Broad Run that was not a bridge would have run through a ford. A question mark is also used in a few cases where the spelling of a word or a name is partly, but not completely, legible.

A number in parentheses after a page number indicates the number of entries for the index subject on the page.

A word or group of words in parentheses indicates additional information on the subject from the text. For example, see “(to repair) Broad Run bridge” indexed under Bridges and Causeways. A word or group of words in brackets indicates additional information on the subject inferred but not actually stated from the text. For example, see “[probably John] Hough’s mill” indexed under Mills and Mill Dams.]

[Note: The 18th century Loudoun County Order Books exhibit some unusual conventions, particularly for possessives: in names ending with an “s,” the possessive is often indicated by an apostrophe before the final “s” (for example, the possessive for the name “Nichols” is often given as “Nichol’s” or simply “Nichols” rather than “Nichols’” or “Nichols’s”). Although considerable care was exercised to identify the correct names for this index, in cases where researchers have questions, they are urged to check spellings against other contemporary sources.]

Roads

[Note: Roads are cross-indexed to all locations and persons mentioned. Descriptions have been slightly standardized to simplify the preparation of this index. The key word for each entry is underlined. Where several sections or descriptions are given for a road, the page number for the earliest entry is used to determine the indexing order, even if the key word appeared in a subsequent entry. Where only surnames are given, these entries appear first in the entries under that surname. It should be noted that the Loudoun County clerk of this era recorded some of the most detailed road order entries encountered in the 40-year history of the Historic Roads of Virginia project, resulting in unusually long road descriptions. It is hoped that these extremely detailed descriptions will be of particular use to researchers in identifying early roads in this area.]
